

Rent-a-tree - Christmas tip #8

That's right. Just like paper or plastic, the real or artificial Christmas tree debate has another option - Rent that trademark of holiday cheer.

I'll admit I haven't checked to see if these are viable options for Yuba-Sutter, but if by chance you are reading this from elsewhere, John Fogel's Original Living Christmas Tree Company in Portland rents trees, picks them up in January and replants them in parks and open spaces. The Living Christmas Co. in Torrance, Calif., has 2-7-foot Christmas trees it delivers and picks up with biodiesel truck. Friends of the Urban Forest give San Franciscans the option of regionally appropriate species such as magnolias and strawberry trees. And San Diego's Adopt a Christmas Tree delivers live trees via singing and dancing elves and then donates them to families with fire-ravaged homes and yards after the holiday. The cost is the same as buying your own (more or less) but with a better cause.

That is a requirement to be a greenie; all this does is make them feel good and does not do anything realistic.
